

Abstract

An optical disc has recorded therein an AV stream divided into segments. An interleave unit is recorded in front of an *i*th segment to be played back in an *i*th place among the segments. The interleave unit includes a library whose live range has a start point that falls during a playback time of the *i*th segment.